

GROUTING

Grouting is a method of sinkhole repair in which a thick concrete slurry is pumped under the structure creating a “bubble” which then compacts all the loose soil in the adjacent areas.

UNDERPINNING

Underpinning is a method of sinkhole repair in which piers support the foundation of the structure. The piers are driven into the ground and imbedded in underlying competent rock.